

Dear colleagues,

I was redeployed from the Unit in July 2016 following serious and distressing allegations of a personal and professional nature made by four members of the medical team. From then until now I have been unable to visit or contact the Unit whilst these matters were investigated.

After a thorough investigation it was established that all the allegations were unfounded and untrue and I have therefore been fully exonerated. I have received a full apology from the Trust and am currently awaiting apologies from the medical staff concerned but as you can imagine this whole episode has been extremely distressing for me and my family. I will begin my return to the Unit in the coming months. I will need colleagues to be sensitive and supportive at this time.

Many thanks

Lucy Letby

26/01/17